9-Hole Tee Toss

You don't need golf clubs to play this game. Land the golf tees in the buckets, score under par, and you win!

Number of players:

This game can be played in small or large groups.

Setup:

- Print a scorecard for each player. There is one card with pars already listed and a blank card for recording your own par numbers.
- Take nine buckets or large cans (such as coffee cans) and write the numbers 1–9 on the sides. Arrange the cans to make a “course.” Use tape to make a “tee off” line for each “hole.” The lines should be different distances for the hole depending on the par on the scorecard. For example, if the hole is a par 2, the can should be closer to the tee line than a par 5 hole. Test out the distances to see if they work.
- Give each player some golf tees.

The object of the game is to toss tees into the buckets in as few tries as possible.

To play & score:

1. The first player “tees up” and tries to toss a golf tee in the #1 bucket. According to the scorecard, #1 is a par 2. If the player lands the tee in the bucket on the first try, they record a 1 on their scorecard.
2. If the tee does not land in the bucket, the player tries again with another tee. The player should record the total number of tries on the scorecard. Finally, the player gathers up all their tees before moving on to the next hole.
3. If there is a large group of players, different players can tee up at different holes.
4. (Optional) Set a limit on the number of tosses over par. For example, if a player goes over par by 3, they record their score and move on to the next hole.
